A Lively Row at Quarantine a New York Harbor.

Rev. Chas. F. Eaton to Succeed Dr. Chapin—Scheme to Consolidate Jay Gould's Southwestern Roads—Race Rats, Etc.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, April 26.—The steamship Britannia of the Anchor line, from London, arrived and is quarantined with several cases of small pox on the steerage. The patients were removed to a hospital and the vessel detained quarantine.

While the ship was being fumigated, the physicians informed Purser on board, nearly 1000 persons, that it would be necessary for all who had never been vaccinated to submit to that operation. Cabin passengers and a large number of steerage people consented, but 150 of the latter, Russians and Poles, made strenuous objections. One Pole said, "If the doctors use force to me I will knock them down." "That's right, that's right," exclaimed several of his countrymen. Dr. Smith requested a woman to have her arm bare to be vaccinated when she knocked the instrument out of his hand. Finding 150 passengers obstinate, the doctors requested the crew of the steamer to assist in enforcing quarantine regulations. For a time the scene resembled pandemonium. Men shouted, women screamed, and to use an expression of one of the spectators, "the atmosphere was blue with profane language." The doctors and crew were handled about pretty lively by the Poles and Russians, and the women seemed inclined to join in the melee. One woman told the officers that rather than have her ten children vaccinated, she would knock out the brains of the doctor. The crew of the quarantine steamer was taxed by boarded by quarantine boat and compelled to land, where they will be kept until they are vaccinated.

A Distinguished Party.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The steamship Dalhia, due here tomorrow, brings the duke of Sutherland, marquis of Stanford and a number of leading directors of railroad companies, who are making a study our railroad system. They will proceed as far as San Francisco. Thomas Bowles is also of the party. The Pennsylvania roads have already placed trains at their disposal. The party remains here several days. Dr. Russell, of Bull Run fame, is in the party.

Railroad Men in Council.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A conference between the New Jersey Central and Wabash railroads representatives, including Chauncey Depew, Jay Gould, Sidney Dillon, of New Haven, Frank H. Dodds, Senator Frelinghuysen and Judge Le Brun. It was first decided to connect the Jersey Central with New York. A bridge will be built, a tunnel to connect the Jersey Central and Wabash was favorably discussed and a committee appointed to perfect plans for making such connection which involves the building of a street 50 miles long. Rates and also negotiations with the Pennsylvania road are being made.

Washington a Good Place for Vilmine.

NEW YORK, April 25.—A Baltimore correspondent of the Times affirms positively regarding the star route jobbers that if the conspirators are tried in Washington they will never be punished, though evidence gathered there should be piled mountains high. A lookroom in Washington for 12 years, I have never known one solitary case in which a wrong-doer, if he occupied high official position and had control of the machinery of the past 10 years, you will oblige an admirer of the Times.

American Outrages for England.

A recent English review says that a new field of enterprise has been opened by the indefatigable American in which he comes in contact with no British rivals. We are promised at least importation of oranges from Florida, which it is asserted are so much sweeter in those of Spain and Portugal that they will speedily monopolize the market. A trial box of Florida oranges despatches from Jacksonville, Fla., to this city, arrived in prime condition after a journey of three weeks. Other trees oranges were planted. The experiment is likely to be very successful on a large scale and, being it is quite possible that a thriving fruit trade may spring up between England and the southern states.

Dr. Chapin's Successor.

A meeting of the fourth Universalist society has been called by the board of trustees for this evening, in the Church of the Divine Paternity, for the purpose of filling the pulpit made vacant by the death of Dr. E. H. Chapin. Rev. Charles F. Eaton, who is now settled in Palmer, Mass., has progressed most of the people very favorably, and from any of the appointees, and it has been decided to call him.

Big Railroad Consolidation.

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—A. A. Talmage, general agent of the Missouri Pacific Railway, left this city on Thursday for New York. It is an open secret that he goes east to aid in maturing a plan for consolidation of the Missouri Pacific, the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, Texas & Pacific and International & Great Northern railways. A controlling interest in the three first named railways is owned by Jay Gould and his associates in New York, and it is understood that this deal can be very easily effected in New York to the same part as of the International & Great Northern Railroad, or at least a majority of the stock of that road. The importance of this transaction can be appreciated from the following statistics of the length of the roads now about to be consolidated: Missouri Pacific, 5000 miles; Missouri, Kansas & Texas and branches under construction, 1200 miles; Texas & Pacific and New Orleans and Pacific, 1400 miles; International & Great Northern, 750 miles; total mileage, 4435 miles. By this consolidation an unbroken line of railroad communication will be established from St. Louis to Orleans, Galveston, Dallas, and the Mexican border at Laredo. At Laredo this continuous line will be connected with an extensive railway system now constructing in Mexico.

The St. Louis Strike.

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—The street railway strike is unchanged. The police force is diminishing, and the authorities considering the question of protecting the car companies. The strikers will parade this afternoon. The public is still with them.

Another Centennial.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 25.—The Congressional centennial committee has received information that the president and his cabinet and several legislators expect to be present at the unveiling of the Morgan statue at Spartanburg May 10th. Ex-President and Mrs. Hayes will probably attend.

Hanged by a Mob.

COLUMBUS, Ga., April 25.—Lewis Whittaker, colored, charged with the murder of M. J. Jenkins, white, was taken from jail by a naked men at Girard, Ala., today and hanged.

WASHINGTON CITY.

A Gala Day at Washington

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Today a statue of the late Admiral Farragut will be unveiled with imposing ceremonies. The city presents a gala appearance. Crowds throng Pennsylvania avenue and the streets resound with hunting, and the premises of the executive mansion are tastefully draped with national colors.

The procession was formed at 11 A. M. in the neighborhood of the capitol. At 12 o'clock a gun was fired by the naval artillery. The procession moved in column of companies from the capitol by way of Pennsylvania avenue to Fifteenth street and down Fifteenth to Farragut square. At 12:30 o'clock, when the head of the column reached Fifteenth street, a gun was fired by a naval saluting battery stationed in Lafayette square, as a signal to notify the troops in the vicinity of the approach. At 12:45 the presidential party took seats in the stands, and after a prayer the statue was unveiled with elaborate ceremony and display of trumpets, by Quarter master General Meigs, of Farragut's battleship at Mobile, who lashed Farragut to the mast, Secretary Hunt introduced Garfield. He said "Ladies and gentlemen:—I have the pleasure to introduce to you the president of the United States, who will accept in behalf of and to the nation the statue of our illustrious hero."

President Garfield was greeted with loud applause and spoke in a loud, clear voice as follows:

"Fellow-citizens:—It is the simple devotion of art to break down the limitations which separate generations of men from each other, and allow those of past generations to be comrades and associates of those now living. This capitol is silently being filled up with heroes of other times. Men of three wars have taken their places in silent eloquence as guardians and guards of the nation they loved so well, and as year pass on, these squares and public places will be rendered more and more populous, more and more eloquent by the presence of dead heroes of other days. From all quarters of the country, from all generations of its life, from all portions of its service, these heroes come by the ministry and mystery of art to take their places and stand as permanent guardians of our nation's glory."

Hon. Daniel W. Voorhees then, amid loud applause, advanced to the front of the speaker's platform and delivered a most eloquent address.

At the conclusion of Senator Voorhees' address the marine band played "Ha l to the chief," followed by the admiral's salute, during which the troops presented arms, drums beat and trumpets sounded. At the sound of the last gun the admiral's flag was hoisted down, the procession reformed and giving three the marching salute, proceeded to the executive mansion and passed in review before President Garfield, his cabinet and members of the army and navy. The procession was soon afterwards dismissed.

Mrs. Farragut, the widow of the late great admiral, was prompt to-day at the unveiling of the statue. She occupied a place of honor on the platform next to the president, on his right, while the artist, Mrs. Vinnie Ream Hoxie, was seated next to him on the left. The only son of the admiral and Mrs. Farragut, Loyal Farragut, was also present with his wife. There was a large assemblage of naval celebrities.

The Situation in Washington.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—It is generally conceded that the result of the caucus of republican senators to allow a few executive sessions to be held shortly, will be: First, ratification of the Chinese treaties and soon afterwards confirmation of substantially all nominations to which no formidable objection is made. There will then stand in the way of final adjournment the contest over the postmastership nation for other line of senate officers and probably not more than six or eight contested nominations such as those of Stanley Matthews, Don Pardee, Wm. E. Chandler and Judge Robertson. It is now considered probable that some at least of the republican senators opposed to certain nominations will decide to have them in on up until next winter, and there are several set afoot on the democratic side ready to come forward with a sort of compromise proposition which, if adopted, would have that effect, and also end the struggle over the senate committees. They will say to the republicans, we have passed you over-nothing but a select committee business by agreeing to confirm unobjectionable nominations. Now let us all adopt the same course in regard to senate offices. Both the democrats and republicans are sectional in name and territory, and we will make no opposition to their elects in. You can thus elect your officers, the senate can adjourn and we will all go home. The scheme has the possibility that the republican caucus would consent to any such proposition for a change of candidates but, although this is undoubtedly true, it is by no means improbable that the second will at an early day be quietly allowed to go by the board and drift over to next session, together with the contested nominations, to go upon the supposition of lost weather and after the bulk of executive business shall have been disposed of, the senate will quite plainly dwindle in numbers from day to day, and as the local attendance diminishes the chances of accidental and intentional absence of some republican, and quickly consequent adjournment sine die may be confidently expected to increase until some day or other day adjournment may abruptly occur.

The Conservative Leadership.

LONDON, April 25.—It is understood that Sir Stafford Northcote will preside at a meeting of conservatives Wednesday. It is believed that the conservative leadership lies between Northcote and the duke of Richmond.

Dead.

The earl of Fingall is dead.

The Programme for Lecanonfield's Funeral.

LONDON, April 26.—The queen will send a wreath from Osborn, which will be placed on Beaconsfield's coffin. The mourners will assemble at Bigbeen Inn manor house at 2 P. M. Tuesday, which will be left before the funeral. The funeral procession, the coffin being placed upon a wheelchair, on quitting the native house will pass down a sloping pathway on the side of the hill to the southern door of the church where it will be met by the clergy who will then commence the burial service. As the remains are borne through the nave to the chancel the organ will play Beethoven's funeral march, while the choir will render the 104th psalm the ritual. The body will then be taken out through the southern door, the organ playing "O Rest in the Lord," while the mourners quit the church for the vault where the last rites will be concluded in sight of the assembled multitude.

The Honors of Westminster.

It is stated that a proposal will be made in Parliament for the erection of a national monument in Westminster abbey to record the fame and services of Beaconsfield.

A Graceful Act.

In the commons it was announced that Gladstone will shortly move a vote for funds to erect a monument in honor of Beaconsfield, in the vicinity of Westminster. The announcement was received with cheers.

Debate on the second reading of the land bill commenced.

The Queen.

LONDON, April 25.—The queen will return to London by an indirect line of Windsor, on May 2d.

Declined to Consider.

DUBLIN, April 25.—The Dublin corporation failed to pass a vote of confidence for the death of Beaconsfield, certain members desiring suspension of the standing orders for that purpose.

The Land Puzzle.

DUBLIN, April 25.—Parnell in speaking at a meeting at Newry declared it impossible for an honest man to learn what were his rights under the land bill.

Another Irish Leader Arrested.

Jeremiah Rodbert, chairman of the Ballykinladdy land league, has been arrested under the coercion act.

Still One Better.

GLASGOW, April 26.—The papers state that Catherine Marshall, aged 14 years, a daughter of a railway laborer, has not taken food since the beginning of the present year. She takes a little water daily, but generally sleeps. She is greatly emaciated but her pulse is perfectly natural.

The Conference.

BERNE, April 25.—The National Zeitung's correspondent at Paris says: There is no prospect for the success of the monetary conference, as in view of the present attitude of the powers decision to postpone or close deliberations may be expected.

England Merely Looks On.

PARIS, April 25.—Favorable delphy makes and counter-offer of the English royal family to attend here Wednesday to represent England at the monetary conference. It is said to-day that on account of simple to take notes and report to the government, except as to anything important. The English delegate might be taken through a representative in the principal of the conference of the conference.

Greek Affairs.

ATHENS, April 25.—Either the government is to plan on a large scale with its own people or there is to be bridge of war. The fleet is practically ready, and witch will be presented this week. Incidents of attention of the powers to the fact that they had not replied to the reservation contained in the Greek note of the 15th inst.

The Attitude of Turkey.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 25.—The porte's reply to the note of the powers will probably reflect more or less clearly the unsatisfactory feeling produced by the Greek note. The chief aim of the porte is manifestly to secure time to complete the reorganization of its military forces and to put itself in a position to carry out, but to establish permanent friendly relations with Athens and permanent tranquillity in the Greek provinces in Turkey. As the Greek note offers little prospect of this being realized some guaranty will be asked for future compensation for the proposed sacrifice.

North Africa.

TUNIS, April 25.—French troops here are placed at the disposal of the bey for the purpose of maintaining order in the European quarter of the city. The bey declined the offer.

The sultan has approved all measures of the bey lately adopted and negotiations have been opened with the porte to confirm the rights of the sultan and bey.

TRIPOLI, April 25.—It is reported that the French will attack the Kroumirs Tuesday, but torrents of rain have made roads impassable.

Switzerland.

BERNE, April 25.—The federal council has ordered inquiry regarding the passing of phlegm in to-day produced considerable outside. Banks have been washed by waves but not seriously hurt yet.

Flood at Hannibal.

HANNIBAL, Mo., April 25.—Since 7 o'clock this morning at a point about a mile and a half above Hannibal the Mississippi is on the rise. The water is within 2 feet of the top of the levee on the Illinois side and the bank is still rising, below the bend, and above East Hannibal there are still several weak points liable to break any moment. Up to this time the farming there, especially between the levee and the river is under from one to two feet of water. The river is under from one to two feet of water. HOW IT IS MANAGED.

For some time past the Salem Statesman has been doing good work in exposing a fraud of $30,000 in the matter of carrying the mail from Redding to Roseburg. The fraud comes up in the form of additional compensation or extra allowance for service that has never been properly rendered. The allowance was made on pretense of supplying additional transportation for second class matter, so that transportation of first class matter would not be overburdened or delayed. But though pay has been drawn during a long period for the additional service, such service has not been rendered as it ought; and though the department at Washington was long ago officially advised of the delinquency, it has taken no steps to enforce compliance with the contract. It has, however, regularly paid the $30,000, knowing that the service was not rendered. This, as one of Brady's operations, will, it is hoped, now be ventilated.

And since Brady is to be brought to book, light ought also to be let into many other dark places. Oregon and Washington afford as promising a field for this investigation, in proportion to the money expended here for carrying the mails, as any other part of the whole country. It has long been manifest that contracts for many routes have been managed expressly to defraud the government. A little attention will show how this is done.

The rings at Washington which manipulate these jobs have advertisements issued for proposals for carrying the mails on long routes, —as from The Dalles via Canyon City to Baker, or from The Dalles via Prineville to Lakeview —once a week. This is done to comply with the law and cover their own operations. Honest bidders in Oregon, who know the country and the routes well, put in bids for the service at fair rates. But they find every time that they are underbid by these rings in Washington. So the contract is let to the rings, or some member thereof. At once they go to work to get the service and the pay increased. An order is secured, under the system in vogue, to increase the service to three, six, or seven times a week, and to reduce the time. Thus the compensation is multiplied three, six or seven times on the basis on the original contract for weekly service, and two or three times for higher speed. This, in every case, makes a prodigious profit, an enormous steal. Of course the contract office of the postoffice department is confederated in these cases with the rings. Otherwise there would be no possible chance to make such schemes successful. Honest bidders are beaten out of the field by the tactics employed, the government is swindled out of enormous sums, and often the service itself is not performed as the contracts require. All this will explain to disappointed bidders who live upon the routes thus manipulated, why they have no chance against the rings in and about the department at Washington.

It is true there are but few routes upon which a daily mail is not a convenience. There are many, however, upon which the service as paid for is immensely out of proportion to any advantage that the public receives. A daily mail from the Dalles to Canyon City or Prineville is well enough, though a tri-weekly would be ample service; but where is the need of a daily mail from Canyon City through to Baker City? And think of a daily service from Prineville to Linkville! But the objection is not so much against daily mail service on such routes as against the system by which such service is secured. It is managed and manipulated so as to obtain enormous and excessive figures, without the check of competition. Were all routes honestly advertised to the full extent of the service required, then bidders would compete fairly and the government get the benefit of it. As it is, the star service is simply made an instrument for defrauding honest bidders, government and people. If the investigation now undertaken goes to the bottom of it, there will be some revelations for this part of the country as well as others.

PRACTICABLE METHODS.

Ohio has in her constitution a prohibitory liquor law—that is, a law which prohibits the licensing of saloons or the retailing of any spirituous liquors. Under this constitution many kinds of coercive laws have been passed to prohibit liquor-drinking, but all in vain. The last device is modeled on the Michigan plan of a heavy tax on the seller. It is not called a license, but is in the nature of a penalty, to be exacted once a year. It is claimed that this is the only device that has yet been discovered that diminishes drinking, reduces crime and disorder, and renders the saloon business orderly and quiet. The effect of a high tax is to suppress a multitude of small dives and doggeries and to concentrate the business into fewer and more responsible hands; at the same time the state derives a large revenue from the high tax. Acting on this experience of Michigan, the so-called Pond bill is vigorously pushed in the Ohio legislature. This bill will impose a fine or tax of $250 upon all liquor selling. The effect will be to stop the sale of spirituous drink in low dives and small saloons, and, in the opinion of the wholesale men, will materially lessen the amount consumed. Hence the wholesale men are against it, and have been making every effort to defeat the bill.

Nevertheless all persons who see in the excessive consumption of liquors a source of innumerable evils, and who therefore would be glad to have it reduced to the lowest possible limits, can hardly fail to see that this plan of requiring a heavy tax or license of all retailers is really the best restrictive measure that can be adopted, with any reasonable hope of effective results. For all experience proves that consumption of intoxicating liquors can not be entirely prohibited. Efforts therefore should be devoted to the object of checking it as far as possible. Not in a day, or a year, or ten years, is there likely to be any considerable diminution of drinking. The habit, which in a multitude of cases takes the form of a disease, is one of the most deeply-seated of all the bad habits which acquire dominion over man. Men got drunk three thousand years ago, and the overwhelming probability is that they will get drunk three thousand years hence. Most suggestive is the fact that a thousand years ago the Anglo-Saxon race was conspicuous over the other nations of Europe for drunkenness, just as it is now. Is it likely that a few open temperance societies, a little saloon crusading, or even a little paper statute, is going to make any sudden change in this marked characteristic of the race? They certainly will not. Unfortunately it is those chiefly who never drink who are most able to see, or at least who are most willing to acknowledge, that drunkenness is so bad a thing as it really is.

Nearly all the crime and disorder which are the consequence of drinking intoxicating liquors, spring from vile places of resort which would be shut up by a higher tax or heavy license. As it is possible to diminish drinking, though not to suppress it utterly, the plan which has been adopted in Michigan, and is under consideration in Ohio, ought to commend itself to all practical minds. There are few states in which sweeping prohibition will carry, and fewer still in which a prohibitory statute can be enforced, should it be enacted. For it is a truth that must be admitted that a great majority of those who make laws, including those who make the lawmakers, drink in various degrees of moderation. Partial repression only is possible; and this may be effected by enlisting those who use liquors only occasionally and in moderation, with those who do not use them at all, in some plan for suppressing the worst abuses of liquor selling and drinking. The so-called Pond bill, in the Ohio legislature, seems to be such a measure.

Among the new industries of the south developed since the war, none is more deserving of mention than the manufacture of cottonseed oil. This is not the improvement or expansion of an old industry, but the creation of an entirely new one, and therefore especially interesting. Formerly the surplus cotton seed of the south was not utilized in any way, now every bushel not needed for seeding purposes commands a good price to be manufactured into oil. There are fifty-one cottonseed oil mills in the south representing an investment of $3,000,000 and doing an aggregate business of about $9,000,000 a year. The raw material which they use costs about $5,000,000 and the oil and cotton seed cake which they turn out is worth $9,600,000. The oil is largely exported to Europe, where it is converted into salad oil, which is extensively used there and reshipped to this country. The shipments to Europe last year were 130,000 barrels. The oil is also highly prized for use in the manufacture of fine soaps, stearine, white oil, and for many other purposes. In Italy it has been found necessary to put a tax on it to prevent competition with the olive oils of that country. The cotton seed cake, the residuum left after the oil is extracted, makes excellent food for cattle, and is also a fine fertilizer. It sells for $23 to $25 a ton.

Upon estimates made by the pension bureau the conclusion is reached that the entire sum of $50,000,000 appropriated for paying pensions during the next fiscal year will be exhausted by the first of January next. The appropriation will not be available before July 1st, and in all probability will be exhausted by the end of the first half of the year. It is believed also that another deficiency for the current year will be created, for which provision will have to be made at the next session of congress. This shows what an enormous expense the arrears of pensions act has proved to the government, and this expense may continue for years. Claims which never before were thought of are now made with a view of obtaining arrearage, many of them being fraudulent. The department may have a moral certainty of their fraudulency, but is powerless under the present system to right them. As long as the testimony is regular and the other requirements are complied with the claims are approved and ordered paid. Many of them are afterward found to be fictitious, yet there is no remedy, and many millions of dollars are being paid out of the public treasury every year in this way.

The annual report of the life saving service for last year shows that there were 179 stations; within the scope of operations of the service 300 disasters to vessels occurred; 1989 persons were imperilled on these vessels, of whom 1980 were saved, nine being lost. At the stations 1202 days' relief were afforded to the shipwrecked. The total value of property endangered was estimated at $3,811,708, of which $2,619,807 was saved; 67 vessels proved a total loss. In 128 instances vessels were saved by being hove off when stranded, piloted out of danger, etc., etc. This service, which involves more personal hardship and peril than any other, is comparatively the most efficient and by far the poorest paid of any under the government. Superintendent Kimball in submitting his report makes an eloquent appeal for more men and better appliances, and on behalf of his crews, for more pay.

The Scientific American thinks it a pity that babies have not a market value like hogs. A death rate among the pigs, less than one-third the death rate among children in our large cities, moves the government to costly investigations of the cause, and to diplomatic correspondence with foreign nations, while produce exchanges get excited on the subject, and all the newspapers join in the discussion. The babies die by the thousand in New York and other over-crowded cities, and scarcely any notice is taken of the fact. There are multitudes of people to whom it never occurs that the death of human beings is or can be anything else than decrees of an inscrutable providence.

It is hardly necessary to call attention to the remarkable article on "Commercial Cities," by Major Sears, presented to-day. The writer is known as a close observer and sound thinker. His large experience in his profession as a civil engineer on both continents has given him opportunities for making observations on the subject he discusses; and from these observations the bent of his mind has led him to conclusions which he states with singular clearness and force. In this letter he integrates his facts in the form of a general law, and states the principles on which the law is founded. The facts as presented are so clear that to state the case as he has done is to argue it.

If the investigation at Washington goes to the bottom of the star route business we shall have revelations concerning the manner in which the ring has conducted operations on the Pacific slope. A calcium light has long been needed to illuminate manipulations of the mail service in Oregon and Washington. It is the opinion of many that if the authorities fish with a net of sufficiently close meshes there is an Oregon politician who will have some difficulty in wiggling through it.

Statistics of Russia show that only 2,300,000 persons in that empire are able to read, and that only one-half that number take any interest in politics, the most of them nihilists. That is a worse bomb of dynamite than the one that carried off the czar.

The Daily Oregonian.

TUESDAY MORNING, APRIL 26, 1881.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

SPECIAL TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Indications for northern Pacific coast region: Partly cloudy or cloudy weather, with rain.

CITY.

FARMERS' BAZAAR.—A Bazaar held by the ladies society of the German Evangelical Reformed Church, corner of Ninth and Stark streets, will be opened at Metzger Hall, corner of Third and Alder streets, on Wednesday at 2 o'clock P. M. The object of the enterprise is to raise funds for street improvements and the completion of the church building. A number of ladies have taken an active part in the good work. They anticipate a success from the encouragement which they have met.

A PENCHANT FOR PRISON.—Frank Morrill, a brakeman in the employ of the west side railway company, while working in the yard last evening had one of the fingers of the right hand severely pinched. He was engaged in coupling two freight cars when the draw-head caught his finger. He stood the accident and operation of a section of his index digit like a sport, and though suffering severe pain did not quit the yard until his work was completed.

MORE ELECTRIC LIGHTS.—So satisfactory has been the working of the Weston electric lights in Ainsworth and Steamship Docks, that several East street merchants have ordered them through Geo. H. Weidler, agent. Two lamps and one 1,200 candle are now en route from New York, and will be put up as soon as received here. Power will be supplied from the engines of Weidler's mill.

CAUGHT.—Sunday afternoon a sail boat moored at the foot of Jefferson street, was damaged by fire to the extent of $45. The sail was discovered on a blaze, supposed to be the result of sparks from a passing steamer, which had lodged in the boat. It was quickly extinguished by attendants at the boat house. The damaged boat is the property of Samuel Nelburg.

FOR FORT SIMPSON.—The steamer California will sail for Port Townsend, Nanaimo, Fort Wrangel and Sitka, on Friday morning, April 29th, at o'clock. No freight for Alaska taken after 12 o'clock on the day previous to departure. For freight or passage apply to the agent, Mr. Ed. C. Hughes.

REDUCTION OF RATES.—The O. R. & N. Co. now sell retail tickets when bought at city of their offices, at forty cents each, a reduction of ten cents on former rates. When paid to purchase the price of meals is the same as before. The office here and in the last week 450 tickets.

ANNIVERSARY EXERCISES.—The Twelfth anniversary exercises of the Portland High School will be held in the Park building, on Tuesday, April 26th. The rhetorical exercises will commence at 1 o'clock P. M. The public are cordially invited to be present.

APPOINTED GUARDIAN.—In the county court yesterday the following orders were made: "In the matter of the guardianship of Louisa H. and Catherine Hawthorne, minors, Rachel L. Hawthorne was appointed guardian, with bonds fixed at $10,000."

PURCHASE OF HER ESTEEMED.—Mr. James H. Burk, the popular hackman has disposed of his carriage and horses to the Oregon Transfer Co., which will hereafter be found at their place of business, corner of Second and Stark streets.

OREGON FURNACE.—The fire risen, at the intersection of Third and Taylor streets, is complete and now has a capacity of 20,000 gallons. Workmen are engaged in filling in the dirt after which the street will be raised to the proper grade.

SKETCHING TOUR.—Mr. Edward R. Hill, the artist, will start up the Columbia river this morning on his annual sketching tour. He will proceed as far as Walla Walla. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Hill.

Y. P. A.—Regular meeting of the Young People's Association, this Tuesday evening at 7:45 o'clock, at the Baptist church vestry. Everybody invited and strangers made welcome.

NEW RULES ADOPTED

The following changes in the rules of practice in the United States circuit court, for the district of Oregon, have just been promulgated by order of Judges Sawyer and Deady:

It is ordered that rule 12, of this court be amended so as to read as follows:

Rule 12.—Rules 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9 of the district court of the United States for the district of Oregon shall be held and deemed to be rules of this court and applicable to like proceedings in matters therein, except that the time present by said rules for notice of hearing of motions shall be five days instead of ten. And it is further ordered that the following rules are hereby adopted as rules of this court, viz:

Rule 11.—If the attorney or counsel of either party offers himself as a witness on behalf of his client, and gives evidence on the merits on trial, he cannot argue the case, or address the jury, unless by consent of the opposite party and permission of the court.

Rule 12. A copy of the notes taken by the judge, or under his direction, by the clerk of the district court, of the evidence of witnesses examined orally thereon, shall be certified and transmitted to the court on appeal, along with the transcript of the record and all other proceedings in the cause, and shall be admitted as evidence given by such witnesses, but nothing contained herein shall be construed to abridge the right of the parties to reexamine such witnesses in this court, if they shall see fit to do so.

Rule 13.—When appeal shall be made from the decree of this court, the appellant shall, within five days from the pronouncing of filing of such decree, (unless further time is allowed by the court,) prepare, make and serve on the adverse party a statement of the testimony on trial, excepting such evidence as was in writing, which shall be properly referred to therein. The party on whom the same shall be served shall, within five days after such service propose amendments thereto, or the statement shall be deemed acquiesced in; and the statements and amendments unless acquiesced in, shall be submitted by the appellant to the judge within five days afterward for settlement; and the same, when settled, shall be engrossed by the clerk, and with the written evidence shall be deemed the grounds on which the decree was made, and shall operate as a stay to further proceedings in this court.

The only important change in rule is 9, that the time for notice of hearing of motions is reduced from ten to five days. Rules 11, 13 and 15 are new to this court, but are in accordance with the rules of practice in the U. S. circuit court for California.

COMMENCEMENT ADDRESS.

A person sometimes performs his greatest works by the use of a few which he has obtained by accidental preparation during his process of his culture. This preparation is not noticed or sought for by him, but comes to him in company with the knowledge that lies in the direct line of his purpose. While he seeks and acquires certain things for a vocation, he absorbs into his knowledge of which we speak; and of this attention he is directed to it at the time of learning it, he discovers it as second or third rate material for use in his life work. Perhaps he soon forgets it till occasion for its use forces it back to his mental and moral nomination. He is surprised to find himself using by the use of that which he heretofore would consider less so. This results from the circumstance of a person not always being able to determine for what purpose he is naturally best suited. He examines his constitutional structure with some care, with the problem of his life in his consideration. He may consult his parents. His friends remind him of his extreme parts in childhood, that he was precocious in the selection of questions of a theological nature and wisdom, at times eloquently discoursing to the school mates in the barnyard. His boundless talent is encouraged by those around, and he concludes to be a clergyman. He graduates, and his calling is decided, being decided with reference to man and his religious beliefs. Although not one of you may have mistaken his natural aptness, yet your peculiar combination with the theology as here taught, and upon it in this age readers it possible for you to become greatly the aid of our common religion.

Theological thought has lately shifted the basis of its discussions from the seat of mind to that of body. In doing this it has acquired your domain. Soon instead of metaphysical terms abounding in sacred polemics, we have physiological nomenclature. McCosh says that the battle of Christianity with infidelity for the next fifty years will be in the field of physics and physiology. The most dangerous attacks upon our religious systems are not those which seek for discrepancies and unfitting statements in the bible, and which are now doing to the reading world under the caption of "Mistakes of Moses," or "Errors of Religion," but those attacks which are made upon the personal nature of Christ and upon the assumed structure and nature of spiritual being. If these are to be in any way for you to do battle for the right, you possess over those of allmerely theological training to look into those subjects and determine upon correct views. The ministry will of necessity largely draw upon the product of your mind in this age as it struggles to come into a reconciled state of theological opinion. Theologians read Maudsley, Carpenter, Bain and Draper, at this time, almost with an equal degree of interest to that in which you commenced them. As I see it, therefore, you are dependent upon you for the most perfect attainments. No compliment in exchange for this knowledge, that you also read Baxter, Bodge, Watson and others, in order that you may adjust your science in the best possible relation to our work, and to the work, which your present knowledge will facilitate in our behalf.

The great theological element in your education, we will imagine is that which brings you into immediate relation with the doctrine of the origin of sin. This doctrine, entertained and discussed, by some others having but little acquaintance bearing upon it, if decided at all, cannot be decided by superficial investigation. This brings it at once to your consideration. Three theories are held with respect to the origin of souls. One says existence, which affirms that all souls in the universe were created at the same time, before the creation of matter, and that the bodies in which they dwell in this life are prepared for them and that the suffering so often endured in this world is a kind of moral discipline or punishment for some sin committed previous to the present existence. Another theory is creationism. This affirms that every soul is created by the body and put into it at the time of its birth. The third theory is traducianism. This affirms that the soul is begotten as truly as the body of the parent as the body in the parents' child. You are at once a great and difficult problem in this doctrine, which is as practical for you to consider as for the clergy. For a scientific discussion of so much graver the heart of the subject. As to the first theory, which I have mentioned, it is well said by those to be connected with the great article. But as to creationism and traducianism, you are to give your decision, and then if your faith point to creationism, we as the faculty never determine how this view can be accepted without charging God with the creation of an evil soul; how it is possible to reconcile this with the doctrine of inherited depravity, and how God can sanction every act with which his creative power is connected. If your faculties decline traducianism then you will precipitate upon us the difficulty of admitting with this view of the immortality of all human souls; you will also compel us to decide how Christ could otherwise be than a sinful being under this theological generation.

I believe I am correct in stating that the schools of medicine are engaged to a greater extent recently in the study of mental phenomena. While theology continues its investigations with the subjects of the physicists, the latter on the other hand have come out into the realm of sacred polemics. This is done because the modern physicist comes to see more and more the intimate connection, in diseases of all kinds, of body and mind; and also for a more thorough knowledge of morbid mental disorders. For a like reason, in this time of discussion, we are driven to the investigation of physical science. Since then the school of medicine and the school of theology are engaged upon the same subject, each may either work be best subserved for each other's benefit? Let the physician, since his business is rather with the nature and science, and since he cares not to take the time for lengthy deductions, furnish the facts, and let him arrange these facts in the theologian, who is more interested, for the sake of his special work, to results, of a moral and spiritual nature, growing from these facts. I am now ready to state another great doctrine, which forms a kind of supplement to your education. It is the doctrine of Spiritism. I call it by this name simply to place it in opposition to materialism, and do not include all that this word embraces. The entire church is now engaged in a struggle to maintain its long established belief with reference to this doctrine. In one half a century this whole question, which now in some respects is unsettled, and is tending through a crucible of discussion with earnestly arrayed contestants, will be crystallized into permanent thought, and be received as truth. From these circumstances you enter upon an age peculiarly fitting to render you useful to Christ's family, as is at the same time especially adapted to call forth your greatest efforts of mind, and lead you to the very highest developments.

The reason certain signs produce great pain, is partly because the nerve filaments have elements of greatness, but chiefly because in the slow process of the change of thought, there comes a time when the departing thought of the age makes a final and supreme struggle for its life. Its power to resist is fought hand to hand and foot to foot in deadly strife for a half century. As in a time of war and revolution of state, men become great, who might otherwise only have lived in passive ease, men who are thrown by the force of circumstances at their time of life. That man in this age who produces results at the same and constantly keep informed with regard to the drift of thought; who, seated on some eminence with his eye-piece, takes in a third's-eye view of the changes that are fought out around him in the greatest battle of the ages; who watches for popular currents and safe places, while he looks upon the brawler and noisier, but go down to the front because they believe something, and are willing to stake reputation on what they believe, driven back and forced to yield what was so dear to them as truth for many years; he who calls himself liberal under these guises, will come out at the end of this conflict a dwarf, while those having no doubt as to skeptic notions, who have connected themselves with what power they possess to find which they believe to be truth, will give to the world a spirit and vigor that will characterize the ages after them; and you, Christian men and women departing from the field of thought, you have met one of the great questions of our religion. What will you do with it? I beg you to take hold of it with a firm mental grasp. You will not be a novice, if, in a few years, you still be found in a seminary sitting at your knowledge to students of theology. A gentleman of your professional calling assistant quartermaster and acting commissary of subsistence. A gentleman of your ... will be engrossed by the clerk, and with the ... evidence shall be deemed the grounds on ... decree was made, and shall operate as a ... further proceedings in this court.

The only important change in rule is 9, that the time for notice of hearing of motions is reduced from ten to five days. Rules 11, 13 and 15 are new to this court, but are in accordance with the rules of practice in the U. S. circuit court for California.

Dr. Van Scoyoc then delivered the following

Degrees of doctor of medicine were then conferred by Prof. VanScoyoc on J. N. Smith, W. Lang Chapman, George H. Pyle, Ira Hedrick, E. M. Glycalle, W. F. Prudon, W. W. Gray, J. W. Hill, B. M. Eddy, W. Tyler Smith and W. F. H. Boyd.

A very appropriate and instructive charge to the graduates was delivered by Dr. E. P. Fraser, dean of the faculty. The address was full of good advice, couched in plain, strong words.

The valedictory of Prof. H. W. Hill was of the regular character, and closed with advice to his fellow graduates.

Benediction was pronounced by Rev. P. F. Tolfree.

THE MUSICAL EXERCISES

Were rather highly fine. The programme embraced numbers by the best vocalist, the best lady pianist, and the best violinist in the city. Miss Summerfield excelled in good taste two solos, "Ballade et Le Diable," by H. Krug, after Weber's "Invitation a la Valse," and played the accompaniments well. Mr. Cogswell's violin solos "Andante and Scherzo," by David was up to his high standard and won a hearty encore. Miss Dolph in her first song, "Waltz of Love," by Marchesi, and especially in her second, "Stessani Polka," by Mattei, showed that her voice is constantly improving. The latter eclipsed any of her many brilliant efforts before. Both pieces were encored heartily and responded to. Miss Patterson was also encored. Miss Patterson's rendition of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was a masterpiece of musical execution. At times with what seemed to be extravagant animation. After the Doctor's performance, which was grand, even for him, Professor Cate's vocal solo was quite overshadowed.

LADIES' RELIEF SOCIETY.

A Letter from the President of the Organization, Defining the Present Position and Expressing the Wishes of the Society.

To the Editor of the Oregonian:

While we feel fully alive to the importance of the report to the present needs and workings of the Ladies' Relief Society,

The work of the society for the fifteen years of its existence will be found to be one continuous effort to relieve all upon them in calm repose, and all our efforts to relieve such the necessity of the subject. The welfare of the society have been kindly received and encouraged.

It has been said more than once during the year that the ladies would express their wishes in regard to the disposition of the "Shelter." They have engaged space of 40 by 80 feet in machinery hall (old pavilion) for their large implements, and suitable space in the new pavilion for house and small farm implements. All the articles intended for the exhibition are now ready to go from the home manufactory, and will be packed up in elegant style for the express purpose of giving the farmers and producers of Oregon an idea of the resources of their immense establishment.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

Astoria, April 25.

This afternoon at [illegible] Robb, a well known attorney of this city, was shot and killed by J. G. Robertson, a prominent citizen of Clatsop county. Robertson was arrested by the sheriff and lodged in jail. Robb lived but a few minutes after the shooting occurred. Robertson is a brother-in-law of the latter. It has been for some time generally known that there existed a feud between the two families, and that Robb had threatened the life of Robertson. The shooting occurred in the office of Robb, in the presence of several persons. Robertson was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Hume this morning, and his case was continued for one week. Robertson is under bonds in the sum of $2,000 for his appearance at that time. Robb was a native of Ohio, and was about 40 years of age. He was a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity, and will be buried with Masonic honors. The funeral will occur to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the Methodist church. Robb was a member of the Knights of Pythias, and the members of that order will attend the funeral in a body. Robb was a member of the Oregon legislature in 1878, and was a candidate for re-election last fall. He was also a candidate for the office of district attorney, but was defeated by Hon. Geo. H. Durham. Robb was a man of fine abilities, and was highly esteemed by his friends and acquaintances. Robertson is a prominent citizen, and has been engaged in the salmon business for many years. He is about 50 years of age, and has a family. The shooting has created a profound sensation in this city, and the excitement is intense. Robb was shot in the left breast, the ball passing through the heart. He died instantly. Robertson was not injured. The shooting occurred about 2:30 P. M. to-day.

A STRANGE DISCOVERY.

By which we may yet Hear the Sounds of the Fires Raging in the Sun.

[From the Youths' Companion.]

Prof. Tyndall of London has just invented a new scientific apparatus that, when properly used, gives most singular results and shows that the wonders of the photophone have only just begun.

The photophone has already been described in the Companion, and you may remember it is an instrument invented by Prof. Bell for causing a beam of light to convey a telephonic message to a distance.

In the new apparatus, a beam of light from a lime light, or even a candle, is thrown upon a common glass flask having a long neck. To this is fastened a rubber speaking tube that may be placed to the ear, so that any sounds in the flask may be heard through the tube.

Between the flask and the light is placed a circular disk of metal, having narrow slots or openings placed like the spokes of a wheel round the edge. When the disk is at rest, the beam of light may pass through one of the slots and fall on the flask.

If, now, the disk is made to turn rapidly on its axis, the light will reach the flask in a series of flashes, as it shines through the slots one after the other. Here the curious discovery comes in. When the flask is filled with a gas or vapor, say the vapor of sulphuric ether, common street gas, oxygen, perfumes like patchouli or cassia, or even smoke, and the beam of light is made to fall on the flask in a series of alternate flashes, the operator, listening with the speaking tube at his ear, will hear strange musical sounds inside the flask.

The pitch of these tones will correspond exactly with the speed with which the disk is made to turn, and each kind of gas, or vapor, in the flask will give a different kind of note, some soft, some loud, and some very sweet and musical.

This is certainly the most remarkable discovery since the photophone, and it shows that light may be made the means of making sounds audible at a distance, even when the eye can see no difference in the light. It even suggests the idea that we may yet be able to hear the sounds of the fires raging in the sun. It may, indeed, be only a hint to yet more wonderful and unthought of relationships between light and sound, which may be utilized as a medium of communication.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The freight market via Cape Horn is but moderately active and there are no new features to note.

The Manuel Llaguno is the most advanced vessel on berth and will finish in a day or two. The Raphael is doing fairly, but will not get away this month.

Rates of freight are scarcely so firm, and in some instances are little off.

Tonnage is more plenty and there is a disposition on the part of shipowners to accept California business at lower rates, as homeward freights are likely to prove remunerative. The ship Abner I. Benton was taken to-day to load at this port.

A WISE DEACON.

"Deacon Wilder, I want you to tell me how you kept yourself and family so well the past season, when all the rest of us have been sick so much, and have had the doctors running to us so long."

"Bro. Taylor, the answer is very easy. I used Hop Bitters in time and kept my family well and saved large doctor bills. Three dollars' worth of it kept us all well and able to work all the time, and I will warrant it has cost you and most of the neighbors one to two hundred dollars apiece to keep sick the same time. I guess you'll take my medicine hereafter." See other column.

Grateful for her recovery, on her return to Europe, in 1632, she introduced the remedy in Spain, where it was called Cinchona in honor of the lady who had brought that which was more precious than the gold of the Incas.
